

PLEVEN SAYS FRANCE WILL DO FULL PART

Premier Pledges Country To Build Up Strength to Participate in Fight Against Aggression

PLANS 20 DIVISIONS

Washington, Jan. 30.—(P)—French Premier Rene Pleven said today France is building up her strength steadily to do her full part in the North Atlantic Alliance against Communist aggression.

Under the defense buildup now in progress, he said, France will have 20 regular divisions in Europe by the end of 1953, with 100,000 more men under arms than at the outbreak of World War II.

"France is your ally and not just a fair weather friend," he pledged Americans.

Pleven addressed the National Press Club after a second session with President Truman in his series of conferences here. They turned to western European defense problems after having dealt yesterday with the defense of Indochina.

Pleven said he came to Washington with one main idea in mind—"to strengthen the ties that bind our two countries and all members of the Atlantic alliance."

France's recovery since liberation from the Nazis has shown that "the Communists couldn't stop us," Pleven said.

Pleven praised the selection of General Dwight D. Eisenhower to head the North Atlantic forces and said "we are proud to call him supreme commander."

On the arms program, Pleven said that the French plan to place 900,000 men under arms in 1953, compared with 800,000 in 1939. He noted that France has lengthened military service and "suppressed all exemptions."

As fast as tanks and guns can be produced for their use, he said, France is forming reserve divisions which in case of war would eventually double her military manpower.

This was the final day of a two-day conference between the president and premier. They were reported discussing a wide bracket of top order subjects, ranging from France's battle against Communist insurgents in the jungles of Indochina to dangers arising

Plan to Control Prices By Limiting Profits Studied As Stabilizers Arrange Statement

Washington, Jan. 30.—(P)—A plan to control prices by limiting profits was under government study today while wage stabilizers pressed for their first major policy statement designed to free large blocs of wage earners from the pay freeze of last week.

A new "margin of profit" system of price controls was advanced as one way to replace the dead-halt ordered last Friday on price mark-ups. Price Administrator Michael V. Di Salle said the plan, under which sellers would have to peg prices at cost plus a fixed margin of profit, might be ordered by the end of the week.

The plan Di Salle said he is considering would limit profit margins all along the line from manufacturer to retailer. The Friday price order fixed price ceilings at the highest level between Dec. 19 and 25. Wages were sealed at Jan. 25 levels.

In the middle of the struggle for an orderly retreat from the temporary wage-price freeze, Wage Stabilization Board Chairman Cyrus S. Ching called on the public to "have patience."

"So much more progress can be made," he said, if the mine wage experts could be left alone. However, the first wave of mail after the Friday order wasn't mountainous. Most of it was from policemen, firemen, school teachers and others who wondered whether their wages were to be stabilized.

The answer was to be forthcoming in one of the earliest statements of the board. Wages and salaries of the 4,000,000 federal, state and city employees are fixed by legislation and ordinances, and therefore they were left out of the general stabilization program in World War II.

Some members of the Wage Board favored an immediate interim formula which would apply to all workers in the future, clearing the way for completion of negotiations in hundreds of industries, now at a standstill because of the order. That should come first, the labor members argued.

Others on the board thought the agency's first step should be to act on contracts or negotiations completed before Jan. 25, the hold-everything deadline.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Milwaukee said Lone Rock, Wis., in the south central part of the state had a temperature "estimated" at 53 degrees below zero. The official thermometer there goes only to 45 below.

And it was cold and icy and wet over widespread areas of the east. Colder weather was on the way, said U. S. forecasters, for much of the east and parts of the south.

Temperatures were below freezing all the way to the Rio Grande valley. The cold threatened citrus and vegetables in the rich agricultural region.

There was a mounting death toll attributed to the cold and icy weather. Hundreds suffered injuries in falls on icy streets.

Schools closed in many areas—in the east and Texas by ice storms, in the midwest and west by cold weather. Travel on highways was slowed. Many air flights were cancelled. Communications were disrupted in some areas because of ice-coated power lines.

The cold air missed only two parts of the country—the extreme southeast and the far west—forecasters said. The rest of the nation, they said, was feeling the sting of the cold Canadian air.

Temperatures in the east generally were below freezing—and more cold air was predicted to move in during the day and tonight.

STUDENT SENTENCED

Ebensburg, Jan. 30.—(P)—Betty C. Longenebach, 22, of Allentown, today began an indefinite term in the Industrial Home for Women at Muncy after pleading guilty to a charge of concealing the birth of her illegitimate child.

The girl, a student nurse at the Cresson State Sanitarium, was arrested after the body of a child was found on the grounds of the sanitarium. Before she was sentenced, District Attorney Samuel DeFrancesco told the court she served a short jail term two years ago for a similar offense in Lehigh county.

Former Defense Official Predicts It May Be Necessary to Draft 18-Year-Olds

Washington, Jan. 30.—(P)—A former defense official said today he thinks it probably will be necessary soon to draft both 18 year olds and young married men.

Tracy S. Voorhees, former undersecretary of the Army, gave this opinion to the senate preparedness subcommittee. Members of this committee have been debating whether it would be best (1) to draft married men under 26 who have no children, or (2) extend the draft to 18 year olds as recommended by the defense department.

Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass) asked Voorhees which move he thought would be wiser.

Voorhees replied that he favored taking 18 year olds first.

Both the senate group and the House Armed Services Committee are holding hearings on legislation to extend the draft to 18 year olds as a move toward eventual Universal Military Service and Training (UMST) for all physically fit men, beginning at that age.

Voorhees and two World War II scientific leaders, Dr. Vannevar Bush and Dr. William C. Menninger, joined in urging an immediate start on UMST.

All three spoke in behalf of the committee on the Present Danger described by Voorhees as a non-partisan group of citizens formed "to further an adequate defense."

While these three were testifying before the senate group, Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense, told the committee the defense department is opposed to raising the draft age above 26 years of age.

Some of the house committee members have been suggesting it would be better to take older men rather than draft 18 year olds. The draft now reaches only those aged 19 to 26.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas), the subcommittee chairman, said the group will start closed door sessions tomorrow at which it will revise the measure and consider proposed amendments.

SECOND CRASH VICTIM

Brownsville, Jan. 30.—(P)—An week-end auto wreck near California, Pa., on Route 88 has claimed its second victim. Robert Boulanger, 17, of California, died last night. Omer C. Anderson, 44, also of California, died on Sunday a few hours after the wreck. He and Boulanger were thrown from an auto which knocked down 15 guard rails.

VOTE NEAR ON PROPOSAL TO INDICT CHINA

Lake Success, Jan. 30.—(P)—The Soviet bloc tried unsuccessfully today to delay for 24 hours a United Nations vote on the United States demand that Communist China be indicted as an aggressor in Korea.

Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia appealed for an adjournment of the U. N. political committee on the ground that they had received no instructions on amendments to the U. S. proposal and to an Arab-Asian resolution calling for a seven-power conference on far eastern problems.

The committee turned down the adjournment proposal by a vote of 32 against, 10 in favor and 12 abstentions.

The committee then went ahead with its debate, which was expected to lead to a vote some time during the day. At least two-thirds of the 60 nations were expected to vote for the U. S. proposal.

Informed quarters said Britain had received instructions to support the U. S. proposal, together with two Lebanese amendments, and to abstain on the Asian-Arab proposal.

The United States put all the pressure at its command, including a statement by President Truman and resolutions by the house and senate, into the drive to label the Communist Peiping regime an aggressor.

Chief opposition came from the Soviet bloc, which maintains that the U. S. is the aggressor against Korea and China, and from India, which fears a sharp word to the Chinese Reds may set off World War III.

India sparked a drive to push through a resolution calling for another peace appeal to Peiping. The Chinese Communists have already rejected three previous such offers.

Sir Benegal N. Rau, chief Indian delegate, said yesterday refusal to adopt his resolution, sponsored by 11 Arab-Asian nations, would close the door to a peaceful solution.

Other diplomats asked how it was possible to close a door on someone who never had admitted it was open.

Jaycees Discuss Brookville Chapter

Five members of the Warren Junior Chamber of Commerce traveled to Brookville last night to start the organization of a Jaycee Chapter in that community.

The request for a Junior Chamber there was made by the Brookville Senior Chamber of Commerce and a large group of the board of directors attended last night's session. In addition a number of Brookville women attended in the hopes that they could join the Jaycees.

A temporary chairman was appointed and another meeting will be scheduled in the next two weeks. Making the trip were Alex Fino, extension chairman and state director, President Ken Carlson, Vice President John Newmaker, Milton Dahler and Chuck Tranter.

MEXICO CITY REPORT BELIEVED IN ERROR

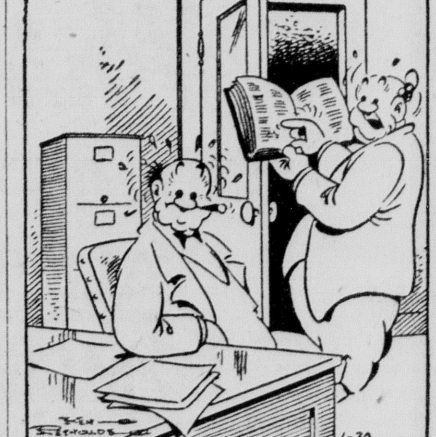

Mexico City, Jan. 30.—(P)—A man police said was Carl Ernest Hampin, 42, of Youngsville, Pa., was killed yesterday when his automobile was hit by a gasoline truck on the Acapulco highway. Mrs. Hampin, traveling with him, was not injured.

The accident occurred some 175 miles south of here.

Police said Hampin died about ten minutes after the crash and that the truck driver fled.

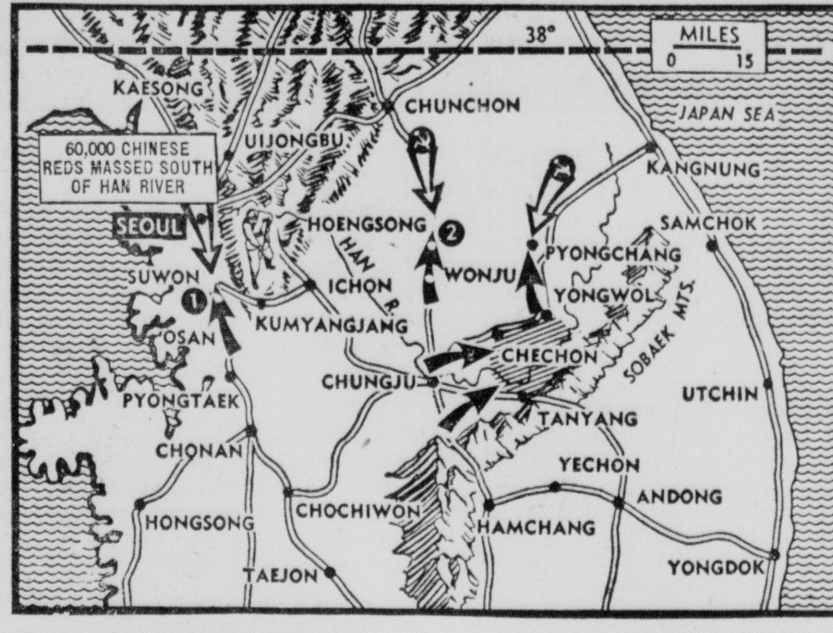

(A careful check at Youngsville failed to shed any light on the above dispatch. No family by the name of Hampin resides there or any other place in the county. So far as could be learned no couple from Youngsville is touring Mexico.)

ALLIES ADVANCE—U. S. 8th Army forces resumed offensive along 90-mile front in west and central Korea after smashing eight separate Red counter-attacks involving 2700 of the enemy in Suwon (1) sector and pushing up to within nine miles of Seoul. Chinese troops (soldier symbol) were reportedly concentrating in pear-shaped mountain region southeast of the South Korean Red-held capital. On east-central front, Allied unit drove toward Hoengsong (2) to within 30 miles of 38th parallel. Seneca School To Be Testing Ground For Student-Fingerprinting Project In Boro

The two-room Seneca school building on the South Side will be the testing ground for the pupil-fingerprinting project to be carried out by the Warren borough police department in cooperation with the Warren County Civilian Defense Council.

Getting under way tomorrow morning, police officers will fingerprint the 49 students of grades one through four, the time required for this operation to provide the department and school officials with an estimate of the time needed to print and catalog the approximately 3,000 pupils enrolled in the borough's public school system.

In direct charge of the entire program, Police Chief Mike Evan has assigned Ray Eckardt, acting lieutenant, to the Seneca project, with Patrolman Edgar Leonard and John Imperial assisting.

A work table will be set up by Principal Grace Bell in the corridor between the two classrooms and here the police officers will place their equipment and identification card files.

These cards, to be maintained as a civilian defense file at police headquarters and used only for identification purposes in case of emergency or disaster, will contain the student's prints, his name and address, date of birth, the name of the school, and a general description as to height, weight, color of eyes and hair, his general build, and any distinguishing marks or scars which might aid in his identification.

While this first work tomorrow morning will be done by members of the regular police force, Chief Evan indicates it will be necessary to give some special training to auxiliary police assistants before the entire program can be carried out.

Defense Meeting At North Warren Is Well Attended

Over a hundred persons turned out last night in the North Warren Community House for a meeting of the Conewango Township Civil Defense organization.

District Director Donald Schuler announced that his district will be divided into two units, one for North Warren and another for Starbuck. In North Warren, Robert Mahan will head the fire service, Edward Rogers, police service, and Ralph Ward, Sr., warden service.

In Starbuck the appointments include Lewis Newark, police service, James Higginbotham, fire service and Albert Toner, warden service. Milton Peterson is assistant director to Mr. Schuler.

Attending the Conewango Township meeting last night were a number of Warren County Civilian Defense officials. They included Judge Allison D. Wade, coordinator and W. F. Clinger, deputy coordinator; P. C. Ostergard, Harry Schmidt, and Francis Buchanan assistant deputies; Sheriff L. E. Linder, Commissioner George Seavy, David Crossett, and B. S. Knabenshue.

Meanwhile two more civilian defense meetings were scheduled. Tomorrow night in the Garland Community House a meeting has been called for 8 p. m. All persons in the Garland area are invited to attend. And Gordon Clark, district director in Youngsville has announced a district meeting for February 7th in the Youngsville High School.

Revolution Threat Holds Russia Back

Pittsburgh, Jan. 30.—(P)—Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, says if the Soviets make a move toward war "they will face counter-revolution behind the iron curtain."

The former Minnesota governor and aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination said in a speech last night the threat of such a revolution is one reason he does not believe the Kremlin will make "a mad move toward war."

In an address to a tri-state area alumni gathering, Stassen declared the minute Russia made a move toward war trouble would arise from nationality groups in the Soviet Union. He declared these include 40,000,000 Ukrainians, Estonians, Latvians and Lithuanians and 25,000,000 Moslems.

Diehard Red Resistance Is Slowing Up Doughboys Along Frozen Western Korean Front

Tokyo, Jan. 30.—(P)—Doughboys spearheading the Allies limited offensive were slowed to a crawl by diehard Red resistance today. An officer said they apparently hit the main enemy force arrayed along the frozen western Korean warfront.

On the east coast, U. N. naval power hurled hot steel and bombs into a North Korean town from carrier-based planes and big guns of warships.

Hundreds of enemy supply vehicles were seen in North Korea moving southward toward the western battle line.

Forward U. N. units in the western sector advanced laboriously only a few hundred yards on the sixth day of their northward limited offensive.

An enemy division may be manning the Red defense line on the western half of the 40-mile front.

They're well dug in and determined to stay," Lt. Col. Bernard Peeters of Park Falls, Wis., executive officer of a spearhead regiment, told Becker.

Advance Allied units, he added, were suffering their heaviest casualties of the offensive, but these were far below the "terrific losses" being inflicted on the enemy.

For the second straight day Chinese artillery pounded away at U. N. positions nine miles northwest of Suwon.

Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, U. S. Tenth Corps Commander on the central front, told a news conference the North Korean Fifth Corps is poised for an attack on Allied forces.

He said his troops had wiped out the Korean Reds' Second Corps.

One 45-man Allied patrol, entirely surrounded by a Chinese Communist battalion Monday 18 miles northwest of Wonju, was rescued Tuesday by another U. N. patrol after 15 hours of arduous fighting.

The battleship Missouri and a heavy naval attack force teamed with carrier-based planes to plaster the Korean east coast town of Kangsong, 25 miles north of parallel 38.

The Navy's east coast bombardment was called the heaviest of recent months. A spokesman said rail and highway bridges were the principal targets.

A naval release late Tuesday said the battleship Missouri alone poured more than 1,000 rounds of 16-inch and five-inch ammunition into the Kangsong area in the first hour of the neutralization.

Men of Famed 28th Division Training Around The Clock And Come Out Alive

Camp Atterbury, Ind., Jan. 30.—(P)—Men of Pennsylvania's famed 28th Division are training around the clock learning to fight, win and come out alive.

The Division took time out during the weekend for a mammoth, full war-strength review. For more than an hour the troops marched 12 abreast before their commanding general, Major-General Daniel B. Strickler.

General Strickler knows from personal experience he has an alert outfit—that his men are ready for whatever lies ahead.

Not long ago Strickler went to watch some of the night training in the hills near this sprawling installation 35 miles from Indianapolis. A sentry stopped him and asked for the password. The General didn't know the password and was refused entry. Strickler later commended the soldier.

Night maneuvers are just one phase of the vigorous training for men of the 28th. They get up early, 5 and 6 a. m., and spend the entire day training. Eating from field kitchens and mess kits is a matter of form.

Although the 28th is a Pennsylvania outfit there are men from many states wearing the famed red shoulder patch now. Since the Division was activated into federal service last September 5 about 40 per cent of the men have been discharged for medical and dependency reasons. Some men also have been transferred to other outfits.

Rates Are Cut By Rural Electric To Most Customers

The Northwestern Rural Electric Co-operative Association has cut its rates about three percent to all but a few large commercial consumers, it has been announced. The rate adjustment went into effect Jan. 1.

In December of 1949 the rate structure was revised and adjusted downward about 10 percent. This makes the second year in which there has been a cut in rates.

Manager William C. Wenner of the Cambridge Springs office made the announcement of the rate adjustment in the office monthly news letter. He said the main features of it are:

"1—The regular monthly minimum for all who are billed on the farm and home and commercial rate schedules will be reduced from $2.75 to $2. This change was made to relieve the burden carried by some few members who are unable to use the 43 kilowatt-hours allowed for the $2.75 minimum, and also as an attraction and incentive to the folks who live along the line and have never taken service.

"2—The monthly minimum to be charged churches, schools and public buildings will be reduced from $1.50 to $1.

"3—A special water heater rate has been adopted reducing the cost of electric water heating with approved equipment considerably.

"4—A demand charge has been added in the commercial rate. This will effect only those customers requiring more than 10 kilowatts of demand, and adds a demand charge of $2 per kilowatt-hour about 10 kilowatts to the former rate."

The REA board of directors decided to make the rate reduction after careful analysis of the financial status of the co-operative and of the present needs and requirements of the members.

FIRE AT FINDLEY LAKE

Two lake side cottages were destroyed by fire at Findley Lake late Saturday at a loss estimated by Assistant Findley Lake Fire Chief Weynard Peith of "not less than $12,000." Fireman Harry Whitney, of the Findley Lake department, suffered slight burns to the neck when a piece of flaming tarpaper fell on him while the fire was raging. He required no hospital treatment, however. Although one of the cottages was inhabited, no one was in either when the fire broke out. Findley Lake residents today are gathering clothing and household goods for Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kimmy and their two children, who lost everything in the blaze. Kimmy said none of the family's possessions was covered by insurance. Owners of the two cottages—Mr. and Mrs. Claude Dugley of Westfield and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hain of Findley, were believed to be covered by insurance.

Game Protectors Say Wild Life Is Surviving Very Well

Titusville Herald: Corn, apple and nut-fed deer of this district are shrugging off winter's worst weather to date.

The survival test will come in February and March, game protectors say.

But "big woods" deer are having difficulty keeping their stomachs full. For them, an ambitious five-count feeding program by air was scheduled for yesterday but it didn't come off because freezing rain kept planes grounded at the Seneca airport.

The Game Commission had corn on hand to supply the air-drop and several sportsmen and pilots were at the field. But the game-feeding program was postponed until next Sunday or until the first good flying day. The Aero Feeding club of Karthaus, Clearfield county, intends to fly over portions of Venango, Clarion, Forest, Warren and Jefferson counties, dropping food to deer and turkeys in remote areas.

District Game Protectors Samuel B. Shade of Titusville and George Burdick of Tidouche said last night the deer in their districts are not suffering from the effects of a prolonged winter as yet.

Mr. Burdick said about 1,000 bushels of corn left standing on three game lands in Warren county, has been "pretty well cleaned up." In addition, about 400 bushels were distributed in the Tidouche area as supplemental food for deer. Unhusked corn on farms is another source of supply for the wildlife.

Other foods such as apples, acorns and beechnuts are still plentiful and there is ample evidence that deer are pawing away the snow to get at them. As a result the animals are considered to be in good shape yet but continued snow and cold will mean a different story.

Mr. Shade said Crawford county deer are thriving on available food. Lumbering operations and small woodlots provide them with necessary browse and standing corn is helping out. A quantity of feed has been distributed.

Dogs are still chasing deer in this vicinity and at present constitute the most danger for them.

Rest Is Important, Says Housewife

It has been said that there are lots and lots of ways for people to try to get some sleep at night. Some folks paint their windows black, others use ear plugs to shut out noises, while others count sheep. All of these are good and they do help some folks get the rest they need, but Mrs. Frank Jones, 1220 Bell, Montgomery, Ala., has the best way to get a fine night's rest.

Here is Mrs. Jones' own statement: "For a long time I had been bothered with indigestion and sour stomach. Food didn't seem to agree with me. I always had that uneasy fullness after I ate. I got to where I didn't want to eat. I had no energy. Felt like I couldn't make it during the day. I also was very nervous. I didn't rest well at night. A friend of mine told me about HADACOL. After the fourth bottle I felt wonderful. My food agreed with me—no more indigestion or sour stomach. My appetite is terrific. I now have lots of energy and my nervousness has gone. I rest wonderfully now. In fact, I feel good all the way 'round. I recommend HADACOL to everybody—it's wonderful."

New Educational Publicity Program Is Being Instituted For Community Chest

Announcement has been made by Nat. W. Drake, executive secretary and campaign director of the Warren Community Chest, that a new educational publicity plan will be instituted for this year.

The thought back of the plan is to better acquaint the general public about the operations and activities of the nine local participating welfare agencies, which are furnished support from funds raised by the Chest's annual "Red Feather Campaign."

Until campaign time next October, each month will be assigned to one of the agencies, and the active personnel of each agency will go "all out" during their month to inform the whole community regarding their particular financial and active operation.

This publicity will be carried out by talks at service clubs, churches and gatherings of other clubs and organizations.

Detailed information regarding the fine work these agencies are doing will also be given over radio station WNAE, as well as in the columns of the Times-Mirror.

The nine welfare agencies participating in the Warren Community Chest are as follows: Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y.W.C.A., Y.M.C.A., Salvation Army, Children's Aid Society, Warren Relief Association, Warren Visiting Nurses Association, and Child Health Center.

Another agency, which may be included in this year's campaign budget, is the United Defense Fund, new national agency created to combine several groups formerly set up for welfare work among the armed forces.

February has been assigned to the Boy Scouts, so will be known as Boy Scout Month in Community Chest circles.

E. Rutledge Sanford is the local Boy Scout executive, and he has the following tentative program schedule arranged so far for the next month, which should go far towards informing everyone of the fine job being done locally in Scout work:

Jan. 31st., Personnel Club at 6:00 p. m. and meeting in Columbus at 8:30 p. m.; Feb. 5th, Rotary Club at 12:10 p. m.; Feb. 6th, Special Boy Scout edition of the Times-Mirror; Feb. 7th, Kiwanis Club 12:10 p. m. and meeting in the evening at Irvine; Feb. 8th, evening meeting at Knights of Columbus, and special program over radio station WNAE in celebration of the birthday anniversary of Boy Scouting; Feb. 11th, Boy Scout Sunday, special services in all churches through the cooperation of the Ministerial Association and Father Maloney.

Other programs will be arranged for the latter part of the month, and will be announced at a later date.

Sugar Grove, Jan. 29 — Mrs. Stuart Anderson, school nurse, who is in charge of the March of Dimes collection for this community, announces the coin containers will remain in business places until January 31 and is anxious for a generous response to this worthy cause.

On the third day of the battle, July 4, 1863, the gallant Southerners hurled themselves against the Union lines for the last time. They were beaten back, and, stunned by paralyzing losses, retreated. The Confederacy had reached its high tide and failed.

NEW ANTI-SUBVERSION BOARD

When Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin was pressing his charges of communism in government, many responsible men in and out of congress urged that the inquiry be transferred from a senate committee to an independent, non-partisan commission.

Many months later, President Truman has now created such a commission—a nine-member board to be headed by Adm. Chester Nimitz. The delay is not surprising, since the president seldom yields to pressure demands while the heat is on.

The American concerned for the safety of his country and the inviolability of his rights surely may wish this commission had been at work long ago. For much damage has been done in recent years by reckless, ill-founded charges against individuals. And one can only guess at the undermining of U. S. security which may be taking place constantly as result of our ineffective checks on spying and subversion.

Mr. Truman's grant of authority to the new commission appears broad enough to enable it to do a competent job.

The group, to be composed of qualified educators, lawyers and others with experience in security and civil rights, will canvass all our laws against treason, espionage, sabotage and other matters affecting internal security. Where they are not adequate, the commission is called upon to recommend new laws to give us proper protection.

Had such a study been made a year or two back, Congress could have acted to combat subversion much more wisely than it seems to have done in the Anti-Subversion Act sponsored by Senator McCarran and others.

The commission also will examine the government's security and loyalty programs to measure their value and fairness. Here the group will be invading the field explored so vigorously last year by McCarthy. To do its chore thoroughly, Mr. Truman will allow the commission to delve into individual case files held secret by loyalty and security officials.

Since the members presumably will be high-minded, patriotic citizens, their report on this phase of U. S. security may well prove to be the final, definitive one on the extent of disloyalty and espionage in government departments.

It is significant, too, that their work is not to be one-sided. Security means restrictions, and restrictions impinge upon personal liberties. We must strive always to maintain the necessary balance between security and freedom, if we are not to lose our reason for fighting tyranny.

The commission is asked to consider the need for "protecting individuals from unwarranted attacks and unwarranted infringement of their rights and liberties in the name of security."

No group of Americans ever had a more delicate task than guiding us toward an attainment of that vital balance. May it undertake its work completely sensible of its heavy responsibilities.

A Washington correspondent warns: If you're one of the 50 odd million people who own some of the $34 billion of outstanding Series E savings bonds, you'll fare better to hold onto them after they mature than to cash them in and buy new ones. Treasury Secretary Snyder has announced a plan for refunding the $1,100 million of E bonds that mature in 1951.

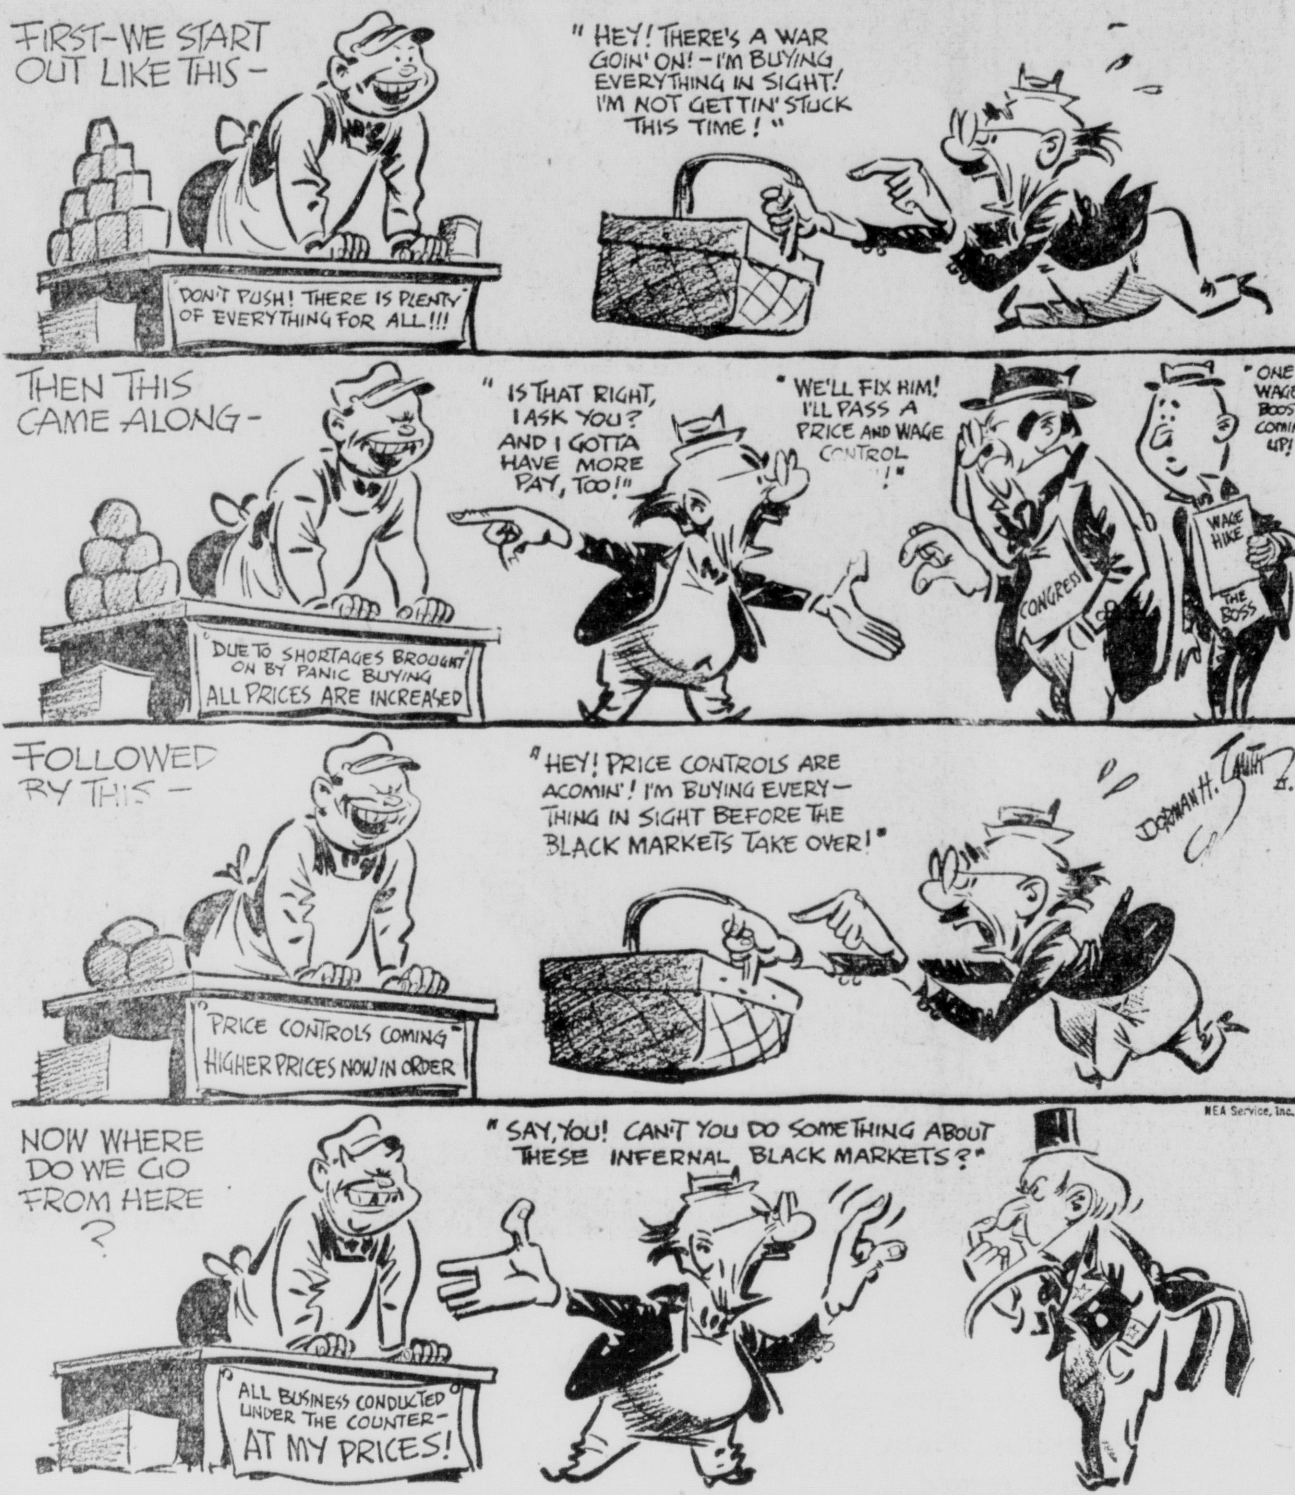

The Bloodmobile will be in Warren one week from tomorrow. Chapter officials and Red Cross workers are registering donors for the visit. If you have received a card you are urged to send it in immediately. Donors are urgently needed!

After tomorrow you will have to have that 1951 operator's license and a new inspection sticker. According to all reports there are many motorist who will not be eligible to drive because they delayed too long in having these important details taken care of.

According to the Wall Street Journal the American businessman's scramble to load up fat inventories before the "shortages" hit has the nation's warehouses bulging as they've seldom bulged before. And the scramble continues.

There's a lot of difference between knowing what you ought to forget and forgetting what you ought to know.

Ain't Human Nature Wonderful?

Here And There

The Red Cross Bloodmobile unit from Buffalo, will be here Wednesday, February 7th, and officials of the Warren County Chapter are busily engaged in scheduling donors to help fill the quota for the visit. In a community which has a reputation for meeting its patriotic responsibilities just a little faster and perhaps more wholeheartedly than the average, it is surprising that any difficulty should be experienced in securing enough persons to make certain that sufficient blood would be donated to meet the expected requirements locally. No able-bodied adult under 59 years of age should hesitate to give blood because of fear of pain or consequences. Take it from one who knows. On the other hand being a donor has many advantages in addition to the satisfaction one experiences in the knowledge that you are doing something to aid your fellow man. There is, for instance, the "free physical" one is given by the experienced doctors and nurses in charge. One receives a blood test, heart and blood pressure check ups, to say nothing about the check on your weight, in case you are back a second time. If you can't pass the tests, you may be advised to see your doctor, and that is worth something in the way of dollars and cents. Having passed the test still more interesting experiences await you, which may cause some apprehension on your first visit but not afterwards. There is absolutely no pain connected with the operation of opening a blood vessel in the arm, and the average person experiences no undue reaction after the pint of blood has been taken, while you lie prostrate on a cot with an attractive and interesting nurse standing by. Having completed the donation, one of the most pleasing of the interesting things in connection with the projects awaits, when you are invited to a side room for refreshments, which may consist of coffee or milk along with delicious sandwiches and your choice of cigarettes.

Budget Increases Dwarf Total Indicated Savings

BY PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The ups and downs of President Truman's new $71 billion budget offer a chance for endless argument. Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, one of the leading spokesmen for economizing, says this budget can be cut by $7 billion. What's more, he promises to show 'em how before very many days pass. President Truman has had the Budget Bureau prepare an eight-page tabulation on some 130 items in which his requests for next year are below the appropriations for this year. This list has received little attention because of its length. But it does indicate that the President, or somebody, took a hack at about 40 per cent of the budget items for indicated savings of nearly $8 billion. These are the "downs" in the budget.

They are dwarfed, however, by the "ups" in the budget. These are the other 60 per cent of the items for which the President requests more money than was appropriated by the last Congress. This is where Senator Byrd aims to do his cutting. These "ups" in the budget total $24 billion. The big item is $20.5 billion increase for military appropriations. It isn't likely that Congress will do any cutting here. MILITARY assistance for foreign countries has been raised by President Truman from this year's estimated expenditures of $2 billion to around $5 billion for next year. There will be some opposition to this $3 billion jump, but it will probably go through. Senator Byrd says he would like to cut $3 billion out of foreign economic assistance funds. Marshall Plan funds for this year are $2.5 billion. The amount requested for next year is for the time being conceded in requests for foreign military assistance. But it will most certainly be less than $2 billion and most of that will go for military uses. So cutting that sum by $3 billion would simply wipe it out.

Leaving the military appropriations out of the calculation, however, the President's requests for more money on some 170 main items of the budget total $3.5 billion. If all these increases were completely eliminated, it would still save Senator Byrd only half of his $7 billion goal. And when these items are examined more closely, it can be seen how politically difficult it will be to cut them. Social security has been upped $105 million. Most of it would go to public health projects, old-age retirement and aid to the needy. These are grants to the states, which will oppose cuts. Aid to education has been upped by $357 million. This can probably be cut, as there is opposition to it in Congress. INTEREST on the public debt goes up by $175 million, and nobody can do anything about cutting that. President Truman asks that general government funds be increased by $99 million. Cut them all out, and it still wouldn't make a dent in the budget. That is the tragedy of so many well-intentioned efforts to economize on government spending. Cut and cut and cut some more, and it still leaves a whopping big budget. This shows up in the Budget Bureau's list of 130 items on which cut-backs were made totaling $6 billion. Three of the items accounted for $4 billion of those savings. Some of the million-dollar cuts look impressive by themselves. Rural Electrification loans were ordered cut back by $273 million. Flood control was cut back by $56 million and Bureau of Reclamation by $73 million. Grants to the states for hospital construction were cut back $85 million. And so on. This is meat-eat economizing. It leaves a budget that is $52 billion for defense items, and $19 billion for non-defense items. Cutting this $19 billion by $7 billion or any appreciable amount will require considerable doing.

arettes, while nurses and aides stand by to make certain that you have suffered no ill effects from your experience. All the while you are meeting among the workers and aides many whom you know well, all with cheery greetings and pleasantries. And it will surprise you to find many among the donors whom you know, some of them your own neighbors and associates. All in all, there is no project where you can do more good for your community and country, that benefits yourself more, and costs less. Think it over! Send in that card, if you have one, and if you haven't, telephone Red Cross headquarters and sign up for the Bloodmobile next Wednesday. You'll be surprised just how good you feel, both mentally and physically, after you have given a pint of blood.

This And That: Plans are progressing for the visit of Commander Joseph McCracken, of the American Legion, along with other Department and Auxiliary officials who will be in Warren February 22d for a joint luncheon of service clubs at noon and dinner at the YWCA in the evening. . . . The New Castle Fireworks Company sends word they will be prepared to furnish a pyrotechnical display for Warren in case it is decided to have a Fourth of July celebration this year. . . . A member of the editorial staff finds it very helpful when persons contributing items, either in writing or by telephone, furnish their names and telephone numbers, for use in case it is found necessary to make contacts regarding the news later, and the idea is passed along to any others having occasion to send in news. . . . A scheduled hunt for "the thing" said to be roaming the wilds in the Tidoute area was called off over the weekend because of inclement weather; described as a possible cougar or mountain lion, the beast has been reported sighted by at least two men recently. . . . Charles Spencer Hart, aged 63, formerly head of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, who died at Doctors Hospital in New York Sunday, as grand exalted ruler, paid an official visit to Warren lodge in March, 1938, the event attracting leading members of the organization from lodges in Pennsylvania and New York State. . . . Stanley Hawkins, of the engineering staff of the national council, Boy Scouts of America, making a two-day survey in the area, will decide the future of Camp Olmsted and probably make some recommendations for expansion of facilities at Jeffere on the Jackson Run road. . . . A sign at terminals along the route announces that Greyhound bus rates will go up effective February 15, but station attendants say the increases apply only to long-distance travel in the west and not locally. . . . Up in adjacent Wetmore township, McKean county, they have a discussion on as to whether they will continue to depend upon the Kane department for fire protection or attempt to form a local company and purchase equipment. . . . Shuffelboard is becoming more popular at the Legion Home since they started offering a nice prize in connection with scores above 175. . . . Gus Carlson and his committee take over to provide programs for the Kiwanis club in February.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington—(P)—The whole attempt to control prices and wages is going to get more complicated, not less.

And you may wind up badly puzzled unless you keep in mind a few of the basic things which form the background for what's going to happen.

In the first place, the government didn't have any power to control prices and wages until Congress last September passed a law.

This was called the defense production act of 1950. It is not a simple law. It runs to 27 printed pages. Briefly, it did this:

It gave the government power to control the flow of materials needed for defense and power to control prices and wages.

That law is the starting point for all that's going to happen. To carry it out, President Truman created the OPS (Office of Price Stabilization) and the WSB (Wage Stabilization Board).

In all they do those two agencies will have to be guided by the law. And like any other agency set up to carry out a law, they'll have to interpret it.

In due time, no doubt, some businessmen, or labor leaders, or congressmen or the public will start screaming about OPS, WSB or the law itself.

If the screams become intense, the law will have to be changed, or OPS or WSB will have to change its way or its officials who do the interpreting.

The price-wage freeze imposed by OPS and WSB Friday night was only temporary. They thought they had to use an emergency measure to stop rising living costs dead in their tracks, if only for a little while.

But if that emergency freeze, whipped together in almost frenzied haste, was permitted to stand unchanged, it would be unfair to many people: Businessmen, workers and the buying public:

1. It would be unfair to workers who hadn't had a raise recently enough or large enough to keep them abreast of living costs or who had agreements for a raise when the freeze hit or were negotiating for a raise. So WSB will have to pry the freeze open to make allowances for them. It will be busy handling cases like that for months and maybe years.

2. It would be unfair to businessmen who can show they must charge even higher prices to avoid bad losses because of recent higher costs of things they bought. So OPS will have to handle their cases, by thousands. More holes in the freeze.

3. And it would be unfair to the buying public if it has to pay for things whose prices have been raised by greed and not necessity. So OPS will have to roll some prices back.

Since these things can't be cleared up in a day or a week, it's plain that OPS and WSB will have their hands full so long as they exist.

Still, all the changing and adjusting which lie ahead seem certain to punch holes in price and wage controls, pushing living costs still higher.

But the law itself complicates matters still more. Fortunately, it doesn't let OPS slap price controls clear across the board on everyone and everything.

It says that the prices of farm products can't be frozen until they reach parity or the prices prevailing just before the Korean war, whichever are higher.

The government decides what price a farmer should be able to charge for a certain product in order to get a fair return on his labor.

This price computed by government formula is called parity. Some farm products still are being sold below parity.

So on these below-parity products the farmer can keep raising his prices until they reach parity or pre-Korean war levels. And the businessmen who buy those products can pass on the higher price to you until the item does reach parity.

That's why some of the prices you pay for food are still going to go up, in spite of the Friday freeze, which wasn't and couldn't be a freeze on the exempt below-parity products.

The OPS couldn't do anything about holding down the prices on them. Congress wrote the law that way.

VOYAGE TO EDEN

By Bennie C. Hall

Chapter 18

DEEPLY shaken by the harrowing experience, Molly could only stammer a “thank you,” and sink back into the dimness of the cab. But Bert, feeling around for his wallet and not finding it, flung an epithet after their retreating host and instructed the cab driver to get them to the pier as quickly as possible.

“Thank you,” he mimicked, turning the full force of his anger upon Molly, who was now beginning to sob softly from sheer nervous reaction. “What do you mean—thank you?”

“I didn't know that. About the wallet, I mean.”

“Well, you know it now,” Bert could not have been any more truculent had Molly stolen the wallet herself.

“I'm sorry about your wallet,” she said. “Are you sure he stole it? Have you looked carefully?”

“Certainly I'm sure. I've got just about enough loose change for the taxi fare; that's all. My wallet's gone, just as I told you. But maybe you'd rather think I'm a liar than admit our mealy-mouthed host is a thief.”

Molly let that pass, too, but only because of the absurdity of the remark. She supposed she would have to get used to Bert's childish tantrums.

He withdrew to his corner of the cab and sat for a few minutes, sulking. Then, when Molly made no move toward appeasement, his manner changed abruptly, and he once more became his ingratiating self. He did not apologize for his outburst. He simply moved closer to her and said, grinning sheepishly:

“Remember me? I'm Bert Hasbrook, the guy who aims to reform. I need you, Molly-o.”

She felt herself stiffen a little as he drew her into his arms. But there was unspoken apology in the gentleness of his touch, and the forced herself to be content with that. She did not believe Bert Hasbrook would ever reform all the way. He would always be a creature of unpredictable moods, vacillating from one extreme to the other and expecting everyone to match his mood with Bert's own. Life with him would be a series of compromises on her part, but his very weakness was like a magnet drawing her toward him. He loved her, needed her. Therefore, she loved him. That, she believed, was enough.

“I guess we were lucky that it was only the wallet,” she said, and lapsed into silence.

Before they reached the pier Bert found his wallet in a pocket that he had overlooked in his first search. But this only deepened the mystery of Ahmed and his possible motives and convinced them that they had been lucky to come out alive.

STILL shaken by their experience and congratulating themselves on what they believed to have been the narrowest of escapes, Molly and Bert were not prepared for the unfriendly reception that greeted them when finally they arrived at the ship. As they stepped out of the launch onto the ship's ladder it came to them as a shock that they were returning as culprits, not as heroic figures who had faced grave danger and were fortunate to get back at all.

The reception committee consisted of two people—Captain Rosario and Elsie Merritt, whose facial expressions said very plainly that they intended to make sure that the punishment fitted the crime.

The captain stood at the head of the ladder, his face almost purple with fury, looking for all the world like a pouter pigeon. Elsie, apparently bent upon getting into the act, stood directly behind him, towering over him. She stood with her arms akimbo, in the manner of a fishwife waiting to read the riot act to an errant spouse, her lips pressed together in a firm, straight line.

“They don't look glad to see us at all,” Molly complained to Bert, who forced himself to be content with that. She did not believe Bert Hasbrook would ever reform all the way. He would always be a creature of unpredictable moods, vacillating from one extreme to the other and expect-

She stopped, laughing nervously, realizing that neither the captain nor Elsie knew what they'd been through. Captain Rosario was indignant because they had defied his precious conventions by separating themselves from the crowd. Elsie was indignant because she had chosen, for the nonce, to play on the captain's team. Elsie saw a good fight in the offing and wanted to be in on it.

“No,” Bert answered. “They look sore as the devil about something. The old man looks fit to be tied, and all Elsie needs is a rolling pin.” He glanced at his wrist watch. “We weren't supposed to sail till midnight, and it's only eleven. We're getting in well under the line. I know we were supposed to wait along with the rubbernecks, but the old goat needn't get horsey about it. And I don't see where Elsie fits in at all.”

There was no time to answer Bert. They were at the top of the ladder now and Elsie, stepping up beside the captain, was blocking the entrance to the ship.

“Well!” Elsie began, determined to get in the first blow. “I think it's high time. You've got the whole place in an uproar, thinking you're lost. You've got Cap here running around in circles.” She turned to Molly. “And me—I've been worrying myself sick about you, knowing you're not responsible. And knowing I haven't been looking after you properly, as I promised myself, since I started my class...”

Captain Rosario cleared his throat loudly, a reminder that he too was present and that, as master of the ship, he was the one to give reprimands. Elsie grinned apologetically and stepped back.

“Okay, Cap,” she lifted a hand in salute. “You tell them. After all, it's your ship, your schedule they're upsetting. Excuse me. I forgot myself.”

The captain frowned his displeasure at such brash familiarity. Then he bowed stiffly at Molly, as much as to say, “I'll see you later, young lady,” and spoke to Bert.

“I'd like to talk with you privately, Mr. Hasbrook,” he said unsympathetically. “I'm very much displeased. If you'll come to my stateroom with me...”

Three Car Crashes Are Investigated By Boro Officials

Three motor vehicle accidents, in which no one was injured, but with property damage estimated at $700, highlighted city police investigations yesterday.

Yesterday morning, cars operated by Donna Jean Brown, of Erie, and Samuel Thomas, of Kinzua, collided on Pennsylvania avenue, east, near Locust street with damage amounting to $125.

Thomas, driving east, pulled into the south curb of Pennsylvania avenue to park when his car was struck on the left rear corner by the Erie car, skidding west.

At 6:35 p. m. yesterday, a collision occurred at Pennsylvania and Liberty with damage totalling $225. Cars involved were operated by Stanley Maines, 113 Crescent street, and Adelaide Crouse, 312 Fifth avenue.

According to the police report, the Crouse car backed out of a parking space in front of Pickett Hardware and made a left turn into Liberty street, colliding with the Maines car directly under the traffic light. Maines was driving west on Pennsylvania.

Last evening, shortly before 10:30 o'clock, cars operated by Merle C. Fitzgerald, State Armory, and David H. Larson, of North Warren, collided at Third and Liberty with damage estimated at $350.

The report stated that Fitzgerald was driving west on Third avenue when an eastbound car whose driver is unknown, cut across in front of him. In swerving to miss the eastbound car, Fitzgerald struck the Larson car.

ent Carl E. Whipple anticipates that a similar request may be made later by defense officials to cover pre-school children.

Chief Evan told the Times-Mirror today that upon completion of the borough program, his department will be glad to lend a hand to other schools desiring to set up a print-identification project even though they are outside borough jurisdiction.

Machinery for the fingerprinting plan was set up in Warren borough at the request of defense officials, school board granting its permission if parental consent was obtained. Letters to parents were sent out by Superintendent Whipple, explaining the program and bearing a detachable request form. Cooperation of parents has been 100%, it is indicated.

In addition to the school program, the police department has as a second assignment the task of fingerprinting employees of local plants holding defense contracts. Chief Evan reports this work to be done by regular members of the force and scheduled to get under way in about a week.

Diehard Red Resistance Is Slowing Doughboys

The Allied advance, measured over a 40-mile front extending eastward from a point nine miles north of Suwon to Yaju, was slow and cautious. The fire of Communist patrol became more frequent.

The U. S. Eighth Army met "light to moderate resistance." An enemy attack west and northwest of Inchon was repulsed early Tuesday. An Allied armored patrol re-entered Hoengsong Monday and found it empty of Communists. Small scale clashes with guerrillas continued south of Tan-yang on the central front.

An estimated 500 Reds attacked Allied forces with machinegun, artillery and mortar fire northwest of Suwon but were beaten off.

U. S. Fifth Air Force planes Monday night loosed the heaviest fire bomb attack of the war on villages scattered in the Seoul area.

Associated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton on the western front reported three big Communist convoys totalling 1,800 vehicles were rolling southward toward the battlefront.

MAKES CAMP INSPECTION—Stanley M. Hawkins, assistant director of the National Engineering Service of the Boy Scouts of America, with headquarters in New York, and Scout Executive Rut Sanford were at Camp Olmsted, near the Cornplanter Indian Reservation, today making an inspection of the Warren County Council's camping facilities there. The engineer will make a study of the camp layout to determine whether the site should be improved and expanded, or whether the summer camp should be transferred to a more suitable location. Hawkins, a native of Orchard Park, N. Y., recalls that he and several other boys once made a canoe trip down the Conewango Creek from Jamestown to Warren when he was a member of a Boy Scout troop. Phalanx Promises Canteen More Aid

Phalanx Fraternity members cast a unanimous vote, at their regular weekly meeting at the YMCA last night, to purchase the lights placed on the five hand racks that have been built for the Youth Canteen. With no other project underway at the present time, it was the decision of the club to help out the Canteen by donating labor and to give as much financial help as possible.

Jack Updegraff, basketball manager, informed the team members that a game has been scheduled for Wednesday evening at 8:45 with a Corry team.

Monday, February 12, was also set as a tentative date for the formal induction ceremony of new members, and Fran Masterson, pro-primus, was appointed to have a program prepared for the meeting at that time.

Other business included the passing out of new membership cards and a report was given that the Phalanx pins ordered were on the way.

Sheriff Delivers Interesting Talk Before Rotarians

As guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club at the YMCA Monday noon Sheriff L. E. Linder delivered an interesting and informative talk on the history, duties and experiences of his office. He was introduced by Nat Drake, program director, F. W. Caughey, president, was in charge of the meeting.

The sheriff told how the office of sheriff was originated in ancient England and how it was imported to the United States by early colonists. He said laws governing the selection of sheriff have changed from time to time. The last change coming in 1947 which permits the sheriff to succeed himself.

Duties of the sheriff's department as "the right arm of the court" include serving and enforcing of court writs, orders and executions. Linder said. His department acts as a probation office checking on activities of some 60 to 70 parolees in the county. Sometimes the sheriff must act for the coroner when that officer is unavailable. The sheriff is responsible for the operation of the county jail and must be available in court at all times, Linder said.

In criminal work, the department co-operates closely with the FBI, state and local officers. Linder said his department and State Police stationed here work together on many investigations.

Linder described the operation and value of fingerprinting, plaster casts and ultra-violet light in criminal detection.

He was introduced by Nat Drake. President Francis W. Caughey conducted the meeting.

Purpose of the Pleven visit was a two-day conference with President Truman on tightening American-French battle strategy against communism in Europe and the Far East.

THE MARKETS

New York, Jan. 30.—(P)—A note of caution crept into stock market trading today and dispelled early buying enthusiasm. A sudden rush of buying at the opening carried prices upward by a few cents to around a dollar a share. For a brief period the congestion resulted in the quotations tape falling slightly behind in reporting floor transactions. Those over-night buying orders soon were absorbed, however, and there was little reserve power left. As a result prices sagged here and there by enough to turn the list into a ragged affair of small gains and losses. Attention throughout was concentrated in steels, motors and rails, with some of the oils moderately active. Today's market movement climaxed a strong advance yesterday that put the averages up to a new high point going back more than 20 years.

Switchmen On Four Roads Report Sick

By The Associated Press

An undetermined number of railroad switchmen at least four railroads—two in Detroit and two in Chicago—stayed away from work today, reporting in "sick," carrier spokesmen said.

The "sick" calls appeared to follow the pattern of last December's work stoppage when some 10,000 yard workers staged what Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen officials termed a "wildcat" strike at key terminals.

Early, there were no reports of similar "sick" calls in cities other than Detroit and Chicago.

Some switchmen today failed to report for work at the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Wabash in Detroit, and the Santa Fe and Chicago belt line in Chicago. A spokesman at the Santa Fe said 36 switchmen—about half the day shift—called in "sick." An undetermined number reported "sick" at the Belt Line and at the two roads in Detroit.

Last month's crippling strike at the peak of the Christmas mailing rush—ended after three days without any settlement in a lengthy wage dispute.

Keeping Hubby in Apron Will Be Rough on Marriage

"SHARE the home-making responsibilities" seems to be the new theme song of the women's magazines.

In articles and even advertisements, the new look in the home seems to portray Papa wearing the apron, at least part of the time.

It's all supposed to be very gay and modern. Papa baby-sitting while Mama has her evening out with the girls. Papa taking the dirty clothes to the wait-while-it-washes laundry. Papa pushing a baby carriage. Papa in apron cooking for the guests. Papa drying dishes. And so on and on.

I've even noticed in some pictures lately that Mama sits proudly by in a fifty-looking outfit while Papa, in apron, shows off at the kitchen range.

Aren't we overdoing this domestication of the American husband?

GAIN A HOUSEMAID, LOSE A HUSBAND

WHEN we finally get all the men being little helpers in the home what are we going to have for husbands—men or mice?

How are we going to continue to look up to and respect men as creatures entirely unlike ourselves, once we've succeeded in getting them into aprons?

And, also, what about us women? Papa will find out that he can cook a meal, diaper a baby, market, and clean house as well as the little woman. Then what is she going to depend on for gaining his respect?

Why can't we go on being partners in the good, old-fashioned way, sitting Papa wear the pants, earn the living, look after the man's work around the house and leave the rest strictly up to the feminine members of the family?

Domesticate the male animal too much and we're bound to end up with less feminine women and less he-man men.

—BOXING—

New York—Featherweight title bout between Champion Sandy Saddler and Willie Pep, scheduled for Madison Square Garden Feb. 23, postponed. New date, probably in March, to be set later this week.

1100-point Scores Highlight Matches

All six teams competing in Warren Revolver and Pistol League matches at the Armory last night fired scores of 1100 or better with Youngville, Complanter and Irvine emerging as the victors.

Youngville shaded the Game Wardens, 1120 to 1107, in the closest match. Complanter beat Sylvania, 1196 to 1159, while Irvine topped N.A.R.C., 1170 to 1105.

Team leaders were: Irvine—Wardens, 249; Sylvania—Swartz, 240; N.A.R.C.—R. Sidon, 241; Youngville—Thompson, 244; Game Wardens—Bielawski, 245; and Complanter—J. Schuler, 260.

—HANGMAN'S "DERICK"—The word "derick," meaning a hoisting apparatus, originated in the Elizabethan days, and was named for a hangman called Derick.

FOOTPROOF FORMULA—Wisconsin's Don Gehrman started the indoor season by twice beating Fred Will, on outside, by taking the lead after one lap, holding it for three, falling in behind the G-Man to the backstretch of the last, then coming on. Sweden's Alf Holmberg, representing Tennessee, is second on the rail at this stage of the Knights of Columbus event at the Boston Garden.

Dragon Wrestlers Lose Chance For Tie Match on Technicality

Warren High School wrestlers had an opportunity to finish in a tie with the rugged Titusville grapplers in an interscholastic meet at Beaty gym last night, but lost out through a technicality.

Going into the last match, Titusville held a 20-14 edge over the Dragons. However, Bob Benson, Warren 185-pounder, went on his opponent, Garon, and gave every indication of pinning him in the first round, which would have netted the Dragons six points and a tie for the match. But in a take-down, Benson lost control of his opponent and Garon hit the match with a tooth-rattling jar.

Referee Jim Reed, of Edinboro, ruled it an illegal body slam, disqualifying Benson and awarding five points to the Titusville grappler.

There were only two pins in last night's bouts, with the rest of the matches going the full distance for decisions. Carl Nelson, Warren 165-pounder, pinned Titusville's Knapp in 2:07 minutes of the second round while Nilson, Rocket 105-pounder, pinned his opponent, T. Slater, in 2:45 minutes of the second round.

Scoring three-point decisions for Warren were R. Lauffenburger, C. Wright, and Bill Moore.

Portion of Renovo Division Of PRR Being Transferred

Effective February 1, 110 miles of main line on the Pennsylvania Railroad will be removed as part of the former Renovo division and transferred to the Conemaugh Division, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, according to orders received here.

The portion of the local division to be removed lies between Redbank and Driftwood.

The Northern Division will have 697 miles of main line left, however, making it one of the largest in the Pennsylvania system.

The transfer of authority will tend to even out the mileage in each division.

The local division superintendent is E. P. Adams, with headquarters in Buffalo, and it is planned to move division offices, now located in Erie, to Buffalo in the near future.

Hal Boyle Bids Farewell To Korea After Six Sad Months in the Unhappy Country

(Editor's note: Associated Press Columnist Hal Boyle writes here of his impressions on leaving the Korean warfront where he covered the human side of the conflict for six months. He has just returned to the United States.)

BY HAL BOYLE

Taeegu, Korea—(P)—This is where I came into the Korean war more than six months ago. And this is where I left it.

You would think a man would be happy at the chance to go back to America after spending half a year in a land as sorry and unhappy as Korea.

But the truth is I didn't want to go. I would rather stay and see how the campaign finally came out.

The other correspondents came around and poured me a farewell drink and said: "You've been over here as long as anybody. You ought to have got the hell out of here long ago. Nobody cares about this story back in the States anymore. Korea is getting to be back page news. The people at home are worrying about themselves—not about the army over here."

And my army friends said: "You want to stay on here? You're crazy. Boy, give me the chance to get back to old Uncle Sugar—just give me the chance."

I appreciated their sympathy, and I loved them for the liars they were—beautiful, wonderful, loyal liars. But they didn't fool me at all. Everyone wants to go home in war, but no man who is a man wants to leave his army while it is non-victorious.

In two wars I had retreated with the American army on three continents—at Kasserine Gap in Africa, at Spa in the battle of the Belgian Bulge, at Seoul in Korea. In the retreats in Africa and Europe I had stayed with the American troops through the entire ordeal and still was with them when they counterattacked and moved back to victory.

This time there was no real prospect of a final victory. The best that can be gained in Korea now is a bitter diplomatic compromise. It was for this very reason that I hungered most to stay here. I didn't want to "bug out" on this shoe-string army just because it was caught fighting a war down a dead end street.

But this has been the longest and saddest half year of my life. I had reached a point where I felt I could no longer do well the job that is mine—to tell the story of individual men in battle. It had all become a gray monotony of the heart and mind, and I had become so worn down with it that I no longer could write it. I could feel the suffering of soldiers and civilian refugees. I could share their dangers. But I no longer could come back and put those experiences into words. I guess I came to identify myself too damn much with this American Eighth Army I have learned to love.

When a reporter no longer can write about what he sees, it is time that he pasture his spirit elsewhere for a time. And that is why I left for home, neither the first nor the last to go—but one who wants to try it again, when he can do it again. Otherwise it would be better that I put away my typewriter and pick up a rifle.

It was a hot and sunny day I landed at the airfield here last July. Men fainted in the heat as they fought upon the hills. They were on the defensive then. They were basically back upon the defensive again on the cold bright day I went back out to the same airfield to start my return trip to America. A bitter wind was blowing, and frostbite was now a problem to the men fighting in the hills.

The jeep moved swiftly through the refugee crowded streets of Taeegu. Some of the refugees wore white bandages around their faces to hide the spreading rot of gangrene. They had frozen their faces marching south from Seoul, and in a few days many would be dead. They were only corpses afoot.

In the plane I boarded were a number of happy soldiers getting a five day leave back in Japan. We took off. The plane circled over a bare field dotted with white crosses. It was the largest United Nations cemetery in Korea.

In six months I had made some friends and lost some friends, and some of them were under the crosses below.

I felt I might never see Korea again, or know these dead and living friends again as I had known them here. I pulled my chin down into my parka and cried silently and alone until I fell asleep.

That was the parting I had from Korea, where better men than I have lost something they never can recover—no, not even if tomorrow a candle of peace were suddenly lit upon every bloody hill from Manchuria to Pusan.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

FIRST UP-CARD IS JUST LIKE ANY OTHER CARD OF THE PILE

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

Beware of rules that aren't found in the book. The first question today is a good example.

Q.—I have been told that when the dealer turns up the first card, this is considered a courtesy card. In other words, the player to the left of the dealer can take the first up-card without making a meld. Is this correct?

A.—Not a word of it. The first up-card is exactly the same as any other card of the discard pile. The player to the left of the dealer may take it only if he can meld it then and there.

Q. The dealer turns up a king as the first up-card. It is my turn to play, and I have two kings and a deuce, needing only 50 points for the first meld. Is it good policy for me to meld the kings and the deuce at once?

A. No. It practically never pays to take the very first up-card. If you do, you will have a reduced hand (seven cards in the example given) and will be at a disadvantage in fighting for the first sizeable discard pile. If you pass the first up-card, you will have other chances to meld, and none of them will be any worse than what you have given up.

As a matter of fact, if you know in advance that you are not going to take the first up-card, you won't give yourself away by looking longingly at the king (or whatever it happens to be). Then the next discard you get a chance at may be another king, and this time you will be quite pleased to take the pile and meld.

Q. The card at the top of the discard pile was a queen. I needed 50 points for the first meld, so I put down queen-queen-deuce and tried to take the pile. The opponents stopped me, saying I could never use a wild card to take the discard pile for the first meld. Is this true?

A. No. Provided you have a pair of natural cards that match the top card of the discard pile, you may use one or more wild cards to help you make the minimum count. In the case given, it was perfectly correct to put down queen-queen-deuce to take the discard pile. The opponents were thinking of another rule, which says that you can't take the discard pile for an initial meld with only one matching card and a wild card.

Q. We had melded a canasta of four jacks and three wild cards. The player at my right threw a jack, and I tried to pick up the pile. The opponents said I couldn't pick up a discard that matched my canasta. I got out the rule book and asked them to show me the rule, but they couldn't do so. Nevertheless they insisted they were right. Did they have any reason to think so?

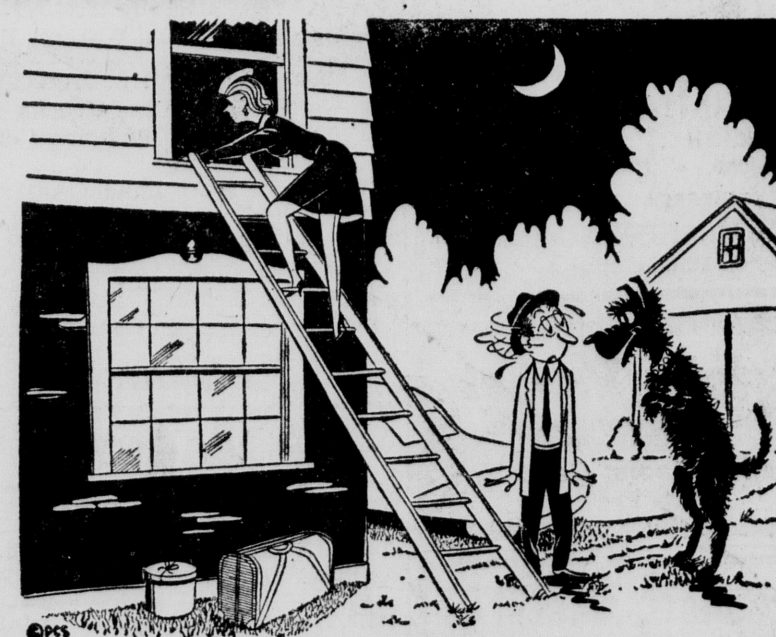

A. Some reason, but not a good one. They were thinking of a local or "house" rule that is followed by a very small number of players in some scattered parts of the country. It is not the official rule and never has been. The official rule is that you may, at your turn, take a discard that matches your closed canasta exactly as you would take a discard that matches any other meld that your side has on the table. For this purpose a canasta is just the same as any other meld.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.
